Rhodis Eason The apex of contemporary sartorial style, Rhodis Eason is a cultural artisan at the confluence of fashion and faith. He skillfully illustrates his philosophy of “Feel Good, Look Good, Live Good” through custom suiting design, strategic brand partnerships, inspirational speaking engagements, and immersive experiential opportunities. Rhodis is a multi-hyphenate, serving as fashion designer and CEO of Sidohr, Atlanta’s premiere destination for bespoke suits, a content creator, and hope dealer to an emerging generation of influencers.

He’s clad with an attentiveness to detail, a fervor to craft and curate transformative solutions. Rhodis doesn't merely tailor two-piece sets; he delicately assesses the interweavings of the individual, mends the snags, while introducing symmetry and precision. Beyond his role as a custom clothier, Rhodis stands as an atelier of the heart, the mind, and the spirit—a stylist who draws diverse creative communities together, helping people sketch out a radical reimagination of their dream lives.

His words, guidance, and consultancy equips individuals with the necessary spiritual competencies and tools to flourish in this dynamically evolving world.

Extending his sphere of influence and empowerment initiatives, he has collaborated with prestigious brands such as Lexus, Cadillac, Todd Snyder x Legent Bourbon, Stacy Adams, and Habibi New York.
